

Bay Area
CFO OF THE YEAR
Awards

Finalists of the Eighth Annual Bay Area CFO of the Year Awards Include
CFOs from Visa, Cisco, Yelp, Autodesk and NetSuite

The event recognizes Bay Area CFOs while raising funds for Larkin Street Youth Services and homeless youth

San Francisco, CA – April 5, 2013 – The independent Selection Panel of the eighth annual Bay Area CFO of the Year Awards announced today the finalists in six categories for 2013 CFO of the Year. All award finalists will be recognized and winners announced at the annual awards dinner and ceremony on Wednesday, June 5, 2013 to be held at the Westin St. Francis, San Francisco.

This unique event, attended by over 500 prominent Bay Area business leaders, benefits Larkin Street Youth Services. The Bay Area CFO of the Year Awards has raised over $2.75 million over the past seven years to support Larkin Street Youth Services. Each year, Larkin Street helps over 4,000 homeless and at-risk youth in San Francisco move off the streets through comprehensive housing, education, employment and support programs. The funds raised help Larkin Street's expanding mission to deepen education and employment-readiness for youth based on the increasing need for post-secondary education and job readiness skills.

Finalists are chosen by a blue ribbon Selection Panel comprised of business leaders including Larry Carter, retired CFO, Cisco; Alison Davis, Audit Committee Chair, LECG, Gamefly, Xoom, Silk Road Technologies, and InterAct 911; Mary Huss, Publisher, San Francisco Business Times; Sharon McCollam, CFO, Best Buy; and Richard Rosenberg, retired Chairman and CEO, Bank of America.
